

King David's Last Advice

1 Kings 2

For many years David was king of Israel and Judah. He was an experienced leader and wanted to help his son Solomon become a good leader too. It was a kind thing for him to do.

Think of a challenging thing you have done. Imagine that you have almost finished a school year and are ready to move on to the next year. Perhaps you have played a sport, or learned a new skill such as cooking, skateboarding, or how to speak a foreign language. Describe what you did:

What advice you would give to someone just starting out to do what you have already done? Write things that could help them.

Think of something you would like to try in the future. It could be a new sport, or the kind of career you would like to have when you are older. Write your ambition below. Try to think of a person you could ask for advice about the challenge you have chosen.
