The Elijah Heals the Widow's Son with Movable Figures

Bring the story to life by creating a movable scene. Elijah stands as he takes the child from his mother and moves to the upper room. Turn figures so that Elijah lies on the boy to heal him. Return the boy to his mother after he is revived.

Supplies needed

- picture of the inside of the widow's house printed on stiff paper
- 1 copy of Elijah and the widow's son "puppet" printed on stiff paper
- crayons, markers or colored pencils
- scissors

Directions

1. Color the inside of the widow's house and the puppet of Elijah and the boy using crayons, markers or colored pencils.

2. Cut slit in the house scene along the line marked just above the stairs so that Elijah can take the boy upstairs.

3. Insert the puppet into the slit. Move Elijah so that he takes the boy from his mother's arms up into the upper room, lays on the boy, and then descends the stairs and returns the boy to his mother.
